
Senior Economist

Aligned Labs • United States (Remote)

About Aligned

At Aligned, we partner with the world's leading AI labs to push the frontier of AI knowledge in fields like STEM, medicine, finance, and the humanities. Our platform matches subject-matter experts (like you) with paid consulting work on frontier projects at these labs.

Who We're Looking For

You hold an MS or PhD in Economics or a closely related field and are actively engaged in economic research or analysis.

Ideal backgrounds include:

- Faculty and research economists at universities or research institutes
- Economists at central banks, international organizations, or government agencies
- Research economists and chief economists at financial institutions or consulting firms
- Economists at technology companies applying quantitative methods to product and market decisions

Minimum Qualifications

- Fluent English reading and writing skills
- MS or PhD in Economics or a closely related field
- Actively engaged in economic research, analysis, or advisory work

Set alert for similar jobs

Senior Economist, United States

Job search faster with Premium

Access company insights like strategic priorities, headcount trends, and more